

Journal Entry
12/25/2013

Another lonely Christmas. The more years that go by the more I feel alone. I don't want to be alone though. I think I may do my usual. I usually don't do this on holidays because that's too cruel to the families. I just want to celebrate by myself. This year feels different though. I feel a bit more lonely. I think I need something to distract me. A little Christmas present for myself.